FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 22. 1866.

Financial Effects of a European War

The opinion seems to prevail, that the recent action in the financial barometer—the appreciation in the price of gold and corresponding depreciation in value of paper currency—has been occasioned by the storm of war which seems to be brewing in Europe. This is doubtless true to a certain extent, but, that such a war will have a permanently unfavorable effect upon our national finances, we do not believe.

The financial panic in England was caused by the imminence of a continental struggle, and, in addition to discounting that event in advance, according to Wall Street parlance, the money market has been temporarily affected by the drawing of a large amount of American securities, held in England, in the hope to realize therefrom sufficient to prevent bankruptcy at home. This cause alone would be enough to account for the sudden advance in the price of gold without looking for any reason more remote and doubtful.

We cannot perceive anything, however, in the aspect of affairs at home and abroad which should render present financial conditions permanent, or of more than temporary continuance. Our finances are in a healthy state. Our revenues far overbalance our expenditures, and, after all the talk about the life of the nation hanging by a single thread, in consequence of political wrangling at the seat of Government, there is really nothing therein to excite serious apprehension, for the people are watching the struggle with a perfect perception of its merits and will be found quite competent, in the end, to dispose of any individual, however high accident may have placed him, any junta, however numerous, who may fail to execute their clearly indicated and sovereign will.

We believe that the effect of a war in Germany, on the scale anticipated, would be rather beneficial to us than otherwise. We cannot perceive how such a result is not inevitable under the circumstances. Our securities are held throughout the German States to a very great extent by small capitalists—men of comparatively moderate means—by the people. In the presence of vast armies and of devastating strife, this would seem to be the kind of property most desirable of all, because less subject to the chances of war. Instead of permanently depressing our national securities, a foreign war wherein we should be neutral must have precisely the contrary effect.

The causes which would inevitably compel such a result will be seen in a European nations without exception are even now mobilizing immense armies, either for purposes of observation or participance in the coming conflict.—Producers, of one kind or another, all these millions of men are at once changed into consumers. Their subsistence is at all times drawn largely from external sources. The more their own industrial forces are lessened, the more is this condition intensified, the greater must be the demand on extraneous aid to supply not only the necessities of the people, but the wants of each commissariat. America and Russia are the great producers, but the latter will be involved, to a considerable degree, in the general war-like preparation, and, hence, on us will devolve the work of providing the means of carrying on the great conflict soon to sweep over Europe.

This is a necessary result of the situation and the early consequence must be to place the balance of trade largely in our favor. The tendency of that will just as surely be to bring down the price of gold. Hence we say a European war at this juncture, however lamentable in its consequences to those immediately concerned, to us is peculiarly opportune. It will enlarge the volume of immigration to our shores, already the wonder of the nations. The carrying trade, which the perfidy of England compelled us to abandon during our own recent rebellion, will come back to us in tenfold proportion. The force of circumstances, fully understood in Congress, will precipitate the downfall of usurpation in Mexico, and thus the prize, which Napoleon sought to snatch from the grasp of unwilling destiny, falls into our possession, requiring only that the hand of protection be extended to take it.

This war, if it comes, will not be of our creation, therefore we may be pardoned for considering only its material effects upon us, without entering into a discussion of its moral aspect or influence, which, to us, are only such as might pertain to the consideration of war in the abstract. We have had our time of trial, and behold our reward is an undivided country at peace through all her borders. Let us hope that from this conflict the down-trodden people of Europe may be enabled, in enlarged privileges, to gather recompense for centuries of oppression.

COMMODORE VANDERBILT is seventy, but active as ever. He has built and paid for one hundred steamers, and is now the largest owner of railroad stocks in the United States. He controls both the Harlem and Hudson river roads, while his interest in the New York Central is not less than half a million.

Particulars of the Capture of Fort Erie, by an Eyewitness.

The Troy Times of the 20th ult. says:

"Mr. Wallace P. Mains of that city was with the army of invasion which crossed over into Canada on Thursday night and seized the town of Fort Erie, about three miles from Buffalo. Mains returned from the scene of Fenian exploits this morning, and gives us the particulars of the crossing of Niagara river, the capture of the place, &c. He says the army of invasion numbered about 3,500; the troops were embarked about 2 o'clock, Friday morning, on steamers, barges, etc., which had been brought from other lake cities for the purpose, and were supplied with arms and ammunition on board the boats. After effecting a landing, the troops set to work tearing up the railroad track cutting the telegraph wires, etc., while the main column marched up and took possession of the town. A small British garrison fired upon the raiders engaged in the work of tearing up the railroad track, and five men were killed. The principal citizens of Fort Erie were seized as hostages, and directed to prepare subsistence for the men, which they did, and had continued to do up to the time of Mains' departure. The army is well supplied with cannon—having six pieces of artillery, which is a good complement for the number of men engaged in and around Fort Erie.

"Gen. McNeil, of Tennessee, commands the troops. He was a rebel officer during the war, but becoming disgusted with treason and hopeless of the cause, rode into our lines during the battle of Spotsylvania, and with his staff surrendered himself to the Second Division of the Sixth Corps. Mr. Mains reports that at 1 p. m. yesterday an aid of Gen. Sweeny arrived at Fort Erie with marching orders for the troops, and at once the line of march was taken up for the new destination. A small garrison was left behind to hold Fort Erie. It is proper to say that Mr. Mains was simply a 'looker on in Venice.' He crossed over with the troops, but bore no part in the subsequent transactions. More than one half of the men engaged were ex-Confederate soldiers."

From Ft. Laramie.

Fort Laramie, D. T., June 7, 1866.

Editor Vedette:—Yesterday I sent you a dispatch giving some items in regard to the Indian Council now being held at this Post. To day it did not meet, but we have some other items worthy of note.

The Indians now here are about leaving to gather in all their warriors, that they may hear what the Great Father's agents have to tell them, so there will be nothing done in the Council for a while.

Colonel Carrington and his command will be here in a few days. The Colonel will take command of the military District of the Mountains.

The Indians object very strongly to the whites going through their country or making any new roads, and they also ask that the troops be withdrawn from Fort Reno; but the Peace Commissioners are equally decided in refusing their demands, and do not intend that they are allowed to go wherever they see fit.

Major Bridger is here, and will go with Colonel Carrington to Big Horn, where a two-company post is to be established.

A large number of trains are passing here daily for the Northern mines.—Success attend them. At the present time it is perfectly safe for emigrants to go to Virginia City via the Connor Cut-off. There are good ferries on the Platte and Big Horn rivers.

We have here a new institution, which is deserving of notice—a Mission School for the education of half-breeds. It is conducted by Miss Walker, an estimable and accomplished lady, who left the comforts and refinements of an Eastern home for this mission in the wilderness. We hope she will meet with the success she so richly deserves. She is assisted in her charitable work by the Post Chaplain.

When the Indians come in again, I will keep you posted as to all that is done in regard to them. BRANNAN.

FROM COLORADO.—Cherry Creek has been on the overflow again, but fortunately did not do any damage this time. ....A prize fight is on the tapis in Denver.....The Register says Lyon's last shipment weighed forty seven pounds. We were through the works the other day and were pleased to see how far labor had been economized. One of the larger reverbatory furnaces, and the small experimental one, are running, that is all. Dr. Johnson says they don't want their furnaces to all give out at once, so that one is being repaired while the other is worked. They have trouble in getting sufficient lead, we believe, too. The fire places are continually made smaller, which increases the heat with less wood. The flues now stand it well, giving it an excellent draft. Last month their receipts from this single furnace ran considerably above their expenses. They find it as hard as any body, however, to carry on an expensive business with everything at starvation prices, and will not crowd operations until a different state of affairs is in existence.

VALE PIXLEY.—Hon. Frank Pixley has become disgusted with his Chinese clients, and severed his copartnership. The city authorities would not listen with assent to his dulcet tones, and the juries were foolish enough to disregard his prettiest-turned sentences and pronounced his clients guilty; and not having a taste for Police Court practice, Mr. P. withdrew from the cases. Yesterday, another attorney appeared for the defendants, and waived a jury trial in all the cases, and they were then continued till Saturday.—S. F. Call, 14th.

ARRIVAL OF GENERALS GRANT AND DENT.—Lieutenant General Grant and General Dent, with their families, arrived in this city Monday evening, and are stopping at the Lindell Hotel.—St. Louis Democrat, 6th.

Richard Clifford has been appointed postmaster for Weaverville, Trinity county.

San Francisco, June 15.

The opposition steamship Moses Taylor sailed for San Juan Del Sur this morning.

Howard Engine Company No. 3 are celebrating their sixteenth anniversary, and are having a jolly time at Alameda Park. Sacramento Engine Company No. 3, from the City of the Plains, are invited guests on this occasion.

The examination of John Duane, charged with complicity in the shooting of Ross, was resumed yesterday afternoon. A large number testified to the shooting by Charley, and of John being present at the time. One witness testified that he heard John say to Charley just before the shooting, "Kill the son of a b—h." Another testified that he had playfully searched Ross about an hour before the shooting and found him unarmed, and that Ross stated that he never carried weapons. One of the parties opposed to Duane in the land suit testified that when Mr. Dick was searched for weapons in the City Hall during the squatter trials, John Duane said, "Search Ross; he carries concealed weapons; damn him, he'll get killed yet." The case on the part of the people was then closed, and the defense are introducing their testimony.

The advance in gold seems to have very little effect on the legal tender market. The bulk of the supply here is understood to be held for speculation, and the price is about 5 per cent. above the gold quotation. There were heavy transactions at the Board this morning, where $9,000 changed hands at 73c, seller 30, and $10,000 at 73¼c. Gold bars are quoted at 880@890, with a continued scarcity of gold. Average lots of silver bars at 1¾@2 per cent.

The mining share market presents the following changes since the morning Board yesterday: Savage advanced $50; Yellow Jacket $27.50, and Ophir $12.50; Imperial declined $5.50; Alpha $51.50; Chollar-Potosi $2, and Confidence $1. At the evening Board, sales of Ophir were made at $350; Belcher, $192; Alpha, $275; Yellow Jacket, $695; Bullion, $30; Confidence, $30.75; Savage, $1,030; Imperial, $111; Chollar, $202; Lady Bryan, $2.75.

THE EXCISE LAW IN NEW YORK.—The Metropolitan Board of Excise has been in operation for weeks, during which time there have been issued 3500 licenses, about 1,500 of which have been paid for, yielding to the city a revenue of upwards of $335,000.

Commenting upon the good effects already observable from the Excise law, the Tribune says:

"The sale of liquors at grocery stores has been entirely prohibited. In no case has a license been granted to any person who, in the same establishment, mixed these trades. No license has been granted to the keeper of a brothel, concert-saloon or resort for thieves. The dance-houses have also been placed under the ban of the Board. Some of the proprietors of the latter class of drinking houses have expressed their willingness to pay $3,000 per annum for license to sell liquor.

"The bar no woman has been licensed. The Board, however, have not determined to grant no license to women, and it is more than likely some will be granted; but those who have brothels or harbor prostitutes will no doubt be interdicted.

"Fully more than one third of the houses in which liquor has heretofore been sold; for the druggists are also prohibited from selling unless they are willing to pay $250 for the privilege, which has the effect of a total hindrance. It is estimated, however, that within the Metropolitan Police District, excluding the county of Winchester, about 6,000 will be licensed to sell liquors. Estimating three-fourths of these as first-class licenses, we have a revenue of $1,125,000 from liquor drinking, while the remaining 1,500 license will pay $15,000 for the sale of ale and beer, making a grand total of $1,275,000 willingly paid for the privilege of dealing in spirituous liquors. The value of the trade may be surmised from these data. We are credibly informed that $30,000,000 worth of liquor was drank in New York during the last year; but as it was then sold without restraint, we are led to believe a smaller sum will change hands under the new regime.

The Daily Union Reflector

Local and Miscellaneous.

SOLAR SPECTACLES.—The Reflector is the pioneer daily newspaper of Utah. Its immense circulation in every mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, (to which it gives the telegraphic dispatches a week ahead of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four central Territories.

We never display advertisements in double columns. Will our patrons abroad please remember this rule of this office. It will save them and us considerable annoyance and correspondence.

THERE are 22,000 confederate graves around Richmond.

AN army of four or five hundred Chinamen left Oroville, Cal., lately for Montana.

A WOOLEN factory is soon to be started in Stockton, Cal., on a very extensive scale.

HARRIET Hosmer, of Mass., makes about $15,000 a year by her chisel. It is said she spends as fast as she makes it, driving the very fastest horses, etc.

A Michigander, who was arrested for stealing a goose, said he found the bird hissing at the American flag, and arrested it for treason.

LEATHER corsets are the fashion in Paris. This is in accordance with the injunction of the poet, "Hide, oh hide those hills of snow!"

PERSONAL.—M. A. Carter, Esq., of Soda Springs, Idaho, started for home yesterday. The Judge is one of the most talented lawyers and enterprising business men in Idaho Territory, and his fine social qualities make him hosts of friends wherever he goes.

THE Masonic Festival, which comes off at Independence Hall next Monday evening, promises to be a very pleasant affair. The managers, assisted by the ladies, are using every exertion to provide an evening's entertainment that will meet the expectations of all.

THE FOURTH.—Let every member of the Y. M. L. Association be on hand at Independence Hall this evening, to make arrangements for the coming Fourth. This is about the only practicable way to bring the matter before the public, and it would be a shame to have it drop through on account of the members failing to attend the meeting to-night.

From the River.

The Omaha Republican says the Nebraska election is so close that an official canvass will perhaps be required to determine the result....Nine of Mr. Train's cottages are already up on the Cottage Company grounds, Omaha, and more are in progress. They make a very material addition to the south-eastern part of the city....The Union Pacific Railroad track is now eight miles beyond Columbus. Seven steamers are engaged in furnishing the road with ties.

POSSIBLE ADJUSTMENT OF THE LAND QUESTION.—A letter writer says that the Californians in Washington are dissatisfied with Judge Edmunds, and they have been working hard to procure his removal. There can be little doubt that his obstinacy has seriously and unfavorably affected every effort made to get the California land questions and titles permanently and equitably settled. The President has agreed to remove him, and appoint in his place Joseph S. Wilson, long Chief Clerk of the Bureau, who sustained the "settlers" in the recent controversies.

UNION TRIUMPH IN OREGON.—The following dispatch from Governor Gibbs was received yesterday by Governor Low and is published for the special enlightenment of the Joe Lane style of patriots in this State:

"Portland, June 14—5 P. M.

Governor F. F. Lowe:—The Union State and Legislative ticket is elected by from fifty to six hundred majority. Congress is sustained. A. C. GIBBS."

—Sac. Union, 15*th*.

We understand that a large number of the Union candidates sustain the President, and the balance of power being in the hands of this class, Nesmith or some other follower of the President will undoubtedly be the next Senator.

FOR AULD LANG SYNE.—Last Monday morning, Capt. J. C. Morrill, late of the Vet. Batt. 3d Cal. Inf., left this city for Idaho Territory, whither he goes to undertake the duties of under Sheriff of Malad county. Long associated with him in the service and more recently in the editorial management of this paper, we take pleasure in expressing our abiding appreciation of him as an officer and a gentleman of fine ability, perfect integrity and great moral worth. Idaho will have no worthier citizen than he within her borders. That great good fortune, health and happiness may attend him wherever he goes, is the sincere wish of his many friends, among whom we are proud to be reckoned one. We hope to meet him many times in the future, and shall call them our lucky days on which good fortune leads us to forgather with our old comrade.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.—Frequent enquiries having been made as to the proper way to send letters to the Pahranagat mining region, I have to say that the most expeditious way to send them to that District, is to mail letters properly enclosed, in stamped envelopes, under cover, put into a separate envelope, with an additional fifty cent postage currency note, for the use of the Postmaster at Egan Cañon.

A pony express goes from the above named point, twice a week. The fifty cents is required to pay the express charge from Egan Cañon to the mines, and should be so enclosed that when the covered letter is opened, the Postmaster can pay the express charge.
